Chairman for Thesis Committee	Eileen M. Smith, M. Arch. Realtor

Ms. Smith and I became acquainted summer of 1989 at the Regent's Center while she was compiling research for her thesis. I assisted her in making a video tape to present to the Landmarks Commission for the historic designation of the Haven Hill on the Country Club Plaza. Her enthusiasm for her subject and her ambition to travel to other countries to explore preservation and development decisions drew my attention and respect. Her faculty advisor in architecture resigned from the thesis committee in November, 1990. I subsequently was requested to chair her committee, which I was pleased to do. At that time, I was director of the Engineering Management program at the Regent's Center. I believe that if she is able to prevail in her work, her contributions could be valuable in improving the construction industry overall.

Ms. Smith is self-motivated and sincerely dedicated to the field of architecture. She seeks to improve construction industry decisions and related decision-making processes. From reading Ms. Smith's thesis and her professional brochure, it appears that the process and criteria used to facilitate decisions effecting architecture have been a life-long interest to her. Ms. Smith has expressed a renewed commitment to her goal to become a licensed architect in the next three years. I believe your program could be quite beneficial to her in developing her drawing skills, a supportive network, and in providing a learning experience through which she may constructively further her worthy ambitions in architecture.

She has followed the development of the Prince of Wales's Institute of Architecture closely, and holds the goals and related accomplishments of this Institution in the highest regard. I would therefore recommend Ms. Smith for the Summer School without reservation, and believe it will be a constructive and worthwhile collaboration.

If I may be of further assistance in clarifying Ms. Smith's skills, motivation and character for this course, please do not hesitate to contact me.
